Wanted—A Railway Policy.

Challenged in the Legislature, the Government admitted the other day that they have not yet found a railway policy for the north country. After pondering the subject for upwards of five years, Premier Brownlee says the only conclusion they have come to is that they will not undertake to run the E. D. & B. C. themselves if they can get out of it.

For that small measure of assurance the public will be duly thankful. If the ministers have not got anywhere, at least they have not proceeded in a wrong direction. True, they might have said the same thing the day after they were elected without straining their perspicacity to determine where danger lies. Still, credit where due. They might have experimented with Government operation there, as they did with the line to McMurray.

If the Ministers are really bankrupt of resources they call, of course, fall back upon the common expedient of appointing a commission to do the pondering for a while. If one commission to invent a fiscal policy, why not another one to frame up a railway policy? That would stall the bothersome question for a year or so. A commission can always be made to share the responsibility, if not to shoulder it. And the taxpayers have to foot the bill.

More "U. S. Money for Europe."

During 1925 American tourists, according to calculations made by the National Tourist office in Paris, spent $700,000,000 in Europe, $380,000,000 of it in France.

Canada has better scenery to offer tourists than Europe, and more of it. And for every United States citizen who can afford to travel, there are a hundred who can afford to tour Canada, or part of it, by railway train or automobile.

Aside from those who are drawn by historical or personal interest, and those who visit in the civilization peculiar to the old world, the reason really people in the United States go to Europe is that they have been told about the Alps and the Rhine and the canals and they have developed a curiosity to see them.

Canada has not sufficiently advertised its scenic wonders in the United States. The Yellowstone Park is better known to Canadian readers than Jasper Park is to United States readers. The American frontier that vanished a generation ago is more real to the Canadian than the "movies" than the Canadian frontier that actually exists beyond Edmonton.

If a comparatively few very rich Americans have $700,000,000 to spend in a single year to see Europe, the many times more numerous Americans who wish a less expensive holiday can get to spend one-seventh of that sum by taking their outings in Canada, east or west. The only reason they do not do it is that we have not sufficiently told them what there is to see on this side of the border.

Alberta Salesmen Are Needed.

Reports from Ontario suggest that if Alberta coal producers hope to open up a permanent market for their coal in that province they will have to establish their own salesmen, east of the border. With Pennsylvania anthracite again available, there is a lack of effort on the part of the Ontario retailers to push sales of Alberta fuel.

This can hardly occasion surprise. All his life the Ontario coal dealer has been buying from firms across the line. Business habits induce a reluctance to change between buyer and seller; one does not change his grocer without cause. The dealer knows F. S. coal. He knows also the way the U. S. operators do business. His customers have been used to that kind of coal and it is probably easier to supply them with that than with any other kind.

Add that the Pennsylvania operators are not so keen to let go a customer as they are to keep it. If extra commissions will hold the allegiance of the Ontario dealer they will be paid. It will pay the Pennsylvania producers to come east, rather than for a time, if that is necessary, to establish in the minds of Ontario dealers and consumers that they are again doing business, supplying coal of the old familiar kind. It may be that there is no need to experiment with other brands of fuel.

Alberta coal has to overcome prejudice in Ontario, as well as demand that it is as cheap as it is not cheaper than U. S. coal. The Ontario dealer cannot be counted on to urge his customers to buy it in preference to the coal they have always bought from him. That might injure his business, for customers do not like to be over-advised. The distributing agency for Alberta coal that province manager is, at least, east of the border. It will have to push business, not merely take orders over the phone.

The only selling organization that is likely to put itself into the fight for the Ontario market in earnest is an organization controlled from the Alberta end and manned by a staff composed of Alberta men, who know Alberta coal, are convinced of its merits, and can only make profits or wages in proportion as they make sales. The Ontario dealer is at best neutral. It does not matter a whit to him whether he sells U. S. coal or not so long as he can sell it. And he may not even be neutral.

Mountains are the beginning and the end of all natural scenery.—Ruskin.

Just Folks

READING TO A LITTLE GIRL.
Reading to a little girl,
Nursery rhyme, a thousand times
Every day, and then one day
There she was, and there she was
Pretending the little bear.

Poor father, how he felt,
I have read it from the start,
And now, when she is grown,
Still she clings upon my knee,
Pretending, "Read this book to me."

Poor mother, how she felt,
By your hour I've sat and read,
Worn without, and there she was,
Stated with jam and buttered bread,
And she loves them, and she knows
Just how every story goes.

Mother reads until she's tired,
When she reads her little girl to bed,
When I close, straight back she goes
With the book to mother's knee,
Here, I tell you, should you ask,
Is a never-ending task.

Dr. Carr's Editorial

THE ONLY EQUALITY
The equality of humans is limited to one thing—time.

Henry Ford, President Coolidge, and the tramp asleep on the park bench all have twenty-four hours to use each day, no more and no less.

Henry Ford, who has many years to live, comes a few more than others, but when the end approaches the machine works no faster, slower, fatter nor wealthier than a tramp.

The only equality is equality of time—to work, time to struggle, time to achieve.

Benjamin Franklin used the years of his life as well that from a humble beginning his rise to be one of the nation's greatest men.

He aptly defined time as "the stuff of life."

A man's investments in time are his investments in his future.

Time invested in training the mind and voice brings greater rewards than any other investment.

Most things in life may be bought with the currency of time.

Within reasonable limits every gift of character has its price.

If you are willing to devote time enough to practice you can learn to play a musical instrument, make a profitable speech in public, have a neat appearance and become the master of many other attributes.

You require a certain number of hours, but our leisure is yours to invest as you wish.

"Time changes all things," says a proverb of the East.

By his expenditure of your one quality you may be equal in other respects to those who now are superior.

Do You Remember?

FORTY YEARS AGO
From the Edmonton Bulletin, Saturday, March 6th, 1886.

J. A. Longhead of Calgary advertised an application to charter for the Calgary, Calgary and Edmonton railway company.

Dr. W. H. Drayton arrived from Athabasca Landing per dog team on Monday. He killed three moose on the way.

Movie Star Weds Britisher; Workman Falls 12 Storeys—Lives

VERSATILE: MISS MARY K. BROWNE, though defeated in Florida last week in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, by Miss Elizabeth Ryan, British and United States woman tennis star, is one of the best racquet wielders in the world, and as well occupies a unique position in sports. She is a leading golfer, and has been thrice United States tennis champion.

JOE HARRIS, Washington cutfielder and hero of the last world series, shown after he underwent a plastic surgery operation on a deep scar which he sustained on the left side of his face when thrown from a truck in the Argonne during the world war. The operation will greatly help his general physical condition and especially his left eye, which will be given more freedom.

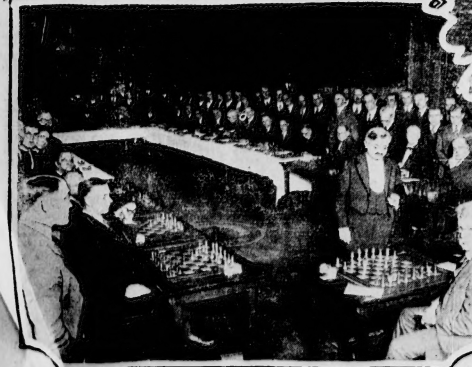

WILD ELK, numbering nearly 400, arrive at the Venetian Range in Massachusetts from the Dixon national bison range at Meigs, Montana. They will be used for breeding. They were transported across the continent in a special train of cars, the journey occupying 94 hours. During the trip 21 died.

LAUGHS AT DEATH—Paul Rockhold, Brooklyn ironworker, pictured convalescing, slipped off a girder on a new building and fell 12 storeys to the street. When he recovered consciousness, four days later, he found he had a broken arm and ten leg fractures, but otherwise he was all right. He expects to be back on the job in a month.

RIGHT: MARGARET, daughter of Isabel Ecclestone Mackay, Canadian poetess and authoress, makes an altogether charming picture in the kitchen of her distinguished mother's home in Vancouver.

RIGHT: WARWHOOPS is sounded through Dresden, Germany, the other day when the party of Sioux Indians now touring Europe rode down the main thoroughfare to the city hall, where the mayor, Dr. Deucher, accorded them a civic welcome in the presence of city dignitaries and a vast concourse of citizens. Above photo shows the procession.

LEFT: DR. LASKER, holder of the world's chess title for 20 years and admittedly the foremost exponent of the game, defeats 30 of Chicago's master players simultaneously.

JACK MUIR, of Vancouver, one of the only two Canadians to score wins in singles over the touring English badminton team, who will represent British Columbia in the Dominion tourney. He is, therefore, predicted as the new champion, succeeding McTaggart Cowan, who is not competing.

YANKS SOCIAL LEADERS WHILE BROOKLYN ROBINS AND BOSTON BRAVES ARE PRACTISING HARD

Huggins Men Are Looking Like Strong Contenders for Peoria's Baseball Crown, While Two More Humble Outfits Are Playing Hard Every Day

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 19.—The social distinctions between the ball teams that are clattering up the real estate of today are matters of considerable heartache and envy to those who find themselves on the short end of the distinctions. The Brooklyn Dodgers, over at Clearwater, seem to be the Judy O'Grades of the social scale of the baseball camps, although it may be that beneath the three-starred banners of the Brooklyn

"Riders of the Purple Sage" is up to the high standard which

Mix does some excellent acting as the soft-spoken two-gun hero. Tony carries his master through perilous situations and aids him with his horse sense. Lynn Reynolds, who directed the photoplay has made the best of the excellent opportunities for showing the incomparable Mix in daring feats. Mabel Ballin is charming in the role of Jane Witherspoon, the girl rancher who falls in love with Lancaster; the subordinate love theme is delightfully played by Marjorie Nixon.

In addition to the feature, there is added two 15-reel comedies, "River Hiders in 'Wireless' Lizzie," and Fox comedy, "The Flying Fool," a single reel scene, "River Nile," completes the film program.
